

ABSTRACT

An epidural stabilization device for restraining a sitting patient against movement during an epidural procedure. The device includes an adjustable face cradle, an adjustable 5 chest support, and an arm support. The face cradle, chest support and arm support are attached to a support post. A support leg extends downwardly from the support post. The support leg is preferably adapted to be received and held by a conventional IV clamp attached to an operating or 10 examination table.

SEARCHED
INDEXED
SERIALIZED
FILED
APR 22 1976
U.S. GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE: 1976 7-1400-100